

Acknowledgements

The author would like to thank Kurt E. Johnson for suggesting that I write this memoir and for his constant encouragement and outstanding editing. Without his contributions and those of Albert Harris, whom I also gratefully thank, the book would be less interesting in so many ways that some of the authorship belongs to them. I also wish to thank Rachel Fink and John Saunders for their stylistic criticisms and John, particularly, for his generous Foreword. Finally, I am everlastingly grateful to my wife Madeleine and her trusty word-processor. I would not have gotten this far without her patience with my endless changes, her cogent suggestions and criticisms, and her steadfast support during the times I was stuck, without a good idea as to how to proceed.

The editor and publisher, Kurt E. Johnson, would like to thank Albert and Elizabeth Harris for their careful editorial work and numerous helpful suggestions on drafts of this book. Carol Erickson, Charles Ettensohn, Rachel Fink, James Weston, the Department of Biology, Wesleyan University, and the MBL Library Archives kindly provided photographs. All other photographs are from private collections or from published papers and are used with permission of the copyright holders. David Minckler made innumerable helpful stylistic suggestions in reviewing early drafts of this book. We acknowledge with gratitude all of these important contributions and accept any errors that may have occurred as our own.
