

Professor Adam Curtis
Department of Cell Biology
The University
Glasgow G12 8QQ
The United Kingdom

27 November 1979

My Dear Adam:

David Newth is a capital selection for the appreciation of Michael. Indeed, I suspected it would be he.

May I suggest, with my usual humility, that perhaps one of the reasons some of your contributors plan to write-up latest results rather than reflections on the state of the subject is because they have not been told that that is what they must do. In all the general communications I have had from the Gang of Three there has been no mention of this requirement. I suspect that they do not know what is expected of them. In any case, you and Ruth and Graham, as the Editors, and Keepers of the Trust, can insist, you know. Indeed, it is your obligation. And there is a recompense. If it is a fine and distinctive volume, you will get much credit. (And, of course, if it is the reverse, the reverse.)

My very best regards,

Copies to: Ruth Bellairs
Graham Dunn