Dear Dr. Trinkhaus,

Your suggestion to me that I write Dr. Etienne Wolff in Paris to see if I might work in his laboratory next year has been a great success. I have been so fortunate as to receive a warm welcome to his laboratory. It is still uncertain as to whether or not I shall hold a paid position, but if I do not do so, I shall be able to continue to work on my research project of this year.

As soon as exams are over, I am planning on trying the techniques you suggested to me during my visit to Yale with Miss Bull. I really am looking forward to next semester's work, for I feel that much of the preliminary groundwork has been done.

Thank you again for your suggestions. They have been wonderful!

Yours sincerely,

Anne-Marie Allard
