

Supplementary Figure 1. Evolutional relationship between phenotypic traits and a variety of protein domains in the genome. Changes in the environment are the driving force for (1) for changes in the genome leading to (2) changes in number and variety of protein domains in the genome and to (3) evolution of species with novel phenotypic traits.