Dear Viktor:

I very much enjoyed reading the article about you in the current issue of the Washington University Magazine. The sympathetic tone of the article just reflects the way the entire University feels about you. I wanted to add, however, my own appreciation for your important contribution to my own career. The courses I took under you, in Comparative Anatomy and Embryology were by far the intellectual pinnacles of my undergraduate experience. I considered them to be truly perfect courses, well designed, beautiful conceptualized, and executed without flaws. I find myself thinking about those courses from time-to-time whenever discussions about curriculum and teaching arise. They showed me what a "gold standard" could be.

It has always been one of the important points of pride to me that I can say that I studied under you.

Best wishes.

Sincerely,

Samuel B. Guze, M.D.
Vice Chancellor for Medical Affairs
